Post-War Program

Mare Island Naval Base

BY REAR ADM. M. S. TISDALE, USN
Commander Mare Island-Vallejo Area, U. S.
Naval Base

NEARLY one hundred years ago, the Navy, pioneering as usual, sent Commodore Sloat to search for a suitable location for a ship repair yard somewhere in the San Francisco Bay area. He, with the presence of the pioneer, chose Mare Island. David Glasgow Farragut, later to become famous as the hero of Mobile Bay, arrived on 16 September 1854, under orders from the Secretary of the Navy, to establish and activate a Navy Yard. I have in my office a copy of his first long-hand report to the Secretary. It is interesting to note that one of his major worries concerned the possibility of prairie fires on the island, which indicates how virgin it then was. A view of Mare Island today will convince anyone how far we have come since that time, for it now is a veritable beehive of industrial and other activity. Vallejo, the city immediately across Mare Island Channel, was one of the earlier capitals of California, so the area fairly reeks with history and tradition. The story goes that the name "Mare Island" was born when General Vallejo's white mare, feeling the urge to escape from a ferry in the channel, jumped overboard and swam to the nearest land; which because of this was named "The Island of the Mare."

Rear Adm. Tisdale

On V-J Day, the Mare Island Navy Yard mustered more than 41,000 civilian workers.

During World War II a major engineering job was accomplished when it was found necessary to greatly increase the size of the Island by use of fill. The North end of the Island is made ground which, as it joins the mainland, changed the Island to a peninsula. Today, the activities of the Mare Island-Vallejo Area of the San Francisco Naval Base (San Francisco is 35 miles south) situated on Mare Island itself, consist of the following separate commands:

- The Naval Shipyard
- The Naval Hospital
- The Marine Barracks
- The Naval Ammunition Depot
- The Retraining Command.

The Naval Magazine, Port Chicago, is on the mainland, some thirty miles away from Mare Island. Perhaps 1,000 decommissioned ships—both Naval and Maritime—are moored or berthed in the Suisun Bay Area, and at the Port Chicago Magazine. The titles of the Naval Ammunition Depot on Mare Island and the Port

Permanent Ranks Given
Officers in Marine Corps

Officers of the Marine Corps and Marine Corps Reserve holding temporary appointments below the grade of brigadier general and whose permanent commissions are second lieutenant or above were this week ordered permanently appointed in their present temporary ranks.

The order applies to all such officers on active duty except those on terminal leave. Reserves on active duty in connection with Reserve Training or Reserve affairs, retired Regulars or Reserves, or those whose permanent status is Fleet Marine Corps Reserves.

At the same time the President affirmed the present temporary appointments in the Marine Corps or Marine Corps Reserve of those now serving in temporary ranks from lieutenant colonel to warrant officers, but whose permanent status is either enlisted, warrant officers, or commissioned warrant officer:

Selection in U. S. Air Force

Air Force boards for the selection of officers for promotion to the grades of major general, brigadier general, and colonel have been named. Approximately 1,400 USAF officers will be considered for selection by these three boards.

The board for selection of major generals will probably convene within the next two weeks. Under present USAF plans for operation of the selection boards they will meet separately, each board reporting its selection decisions before the next lower board meets.

Officers to fill positions on the highest board were necessarily limited due to the comparatively small number of USAF general officers holding high permanent rank.

USAF regulations governing selection of officers for promotion are now completely drawn up but not yet officially announced. Announcement will probably be made within the next few days.

In general principle the method of selection will closely parallel the plan to be

Navy Commanders Appointed

Appointments to permanent ranks in the Navy, under the provisions of Public Law 381, continued this week, with announcement of permanent appointments in the rank of commanders extending down to the top of the U. S. Naval Academy class of 1936.

Also announced was the appointment to the permanent rank of commander of those members of the class between 1926 and 1930 whose appointments to the temporary rank of captain has been affirmed. That group will continue as temporary captains although holding permanent appointments as commanders.

ALNAV 203 follows in full text:

"Permanent appointments in grade of Commander with adjusted dates of rank of those officers whose temporary appointment in grade of Captain terminated on 1 December 1947 will be forwarded individuals concerned.

Further Appointments
Speed Defense Set-Up

Secretary of Defense Forrestal this week left his old quarters in the Navy Building and was installed in his newly-prepared offices in the Pentagon.

The Army-Air Force agreements on redistribution of functions, now being published in the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, have been approved by Secretary Forrestal, at least in principle, although he indicated that many phases of the joint agreement must be worked out in detail in future. At his first press conference in his new post, Secretary Forrestal said:

"I have given my approval to the general principle and intent of the agreement."

The Secretary of Defense made it plain that he intends no immediate sweeping changes in the Services, and warned that immediate economy will not be effected. He said that he intends to issue few directives, wishing rather to deal with individuals.

Secretary Forrestal said that the Services are now "well run," and that he intends to let the Secretaries of Army, Navy and Air Force make their own announcements and does not intend to set up a regular press branch in the Department of Defense.

President Truman 25 Sept. completed top Air Force posts when he named Arthur S. Barrows to be Under Secretary of the Air Force and Eugene M. Zuckert and Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney to be Assistant Secretaries.

General Carl Spaatz, commanding general of the Air Force, was named Chief of Staff of the Air Force.

Dr. Vannevar Bush was appointed chairman of the new Research and Development Board.

Further appointments this week in the Office of the Secretary of Defense included the assignment of three press liaison officers, one to represent each branch of the Armed Services. The duties of these officers are to coordinate the public relations activities between the three Services, to serve as liaison officers between the Office of Secretary of Defense and the three Departments, and to assist and advise the staff of the Office of Secretary of Defense in matters relating to the press, radio, newsreel, and other news media.

The three officers and the services they represent are:

Army: Col. John L. Chamberlain, Jr., USA.

Navy: Capt. E. John Long, USNR.
Air Force: Col. Joseph C. Reddoch, USAF.

All three officers have had public relations experience. Colonel Chamberlain has, until his current appointment, been chief of the News Branch of the Army's Public Information Division. Captain Long served for four years as chief of the Pictorial Section of the Navy's Office of Public Relations. Colonel Reddoch has been Chief Liaison Officer and was chief of the Plans and Policy Division of the Office of the Director of Information of the Army Air Forces.

Also announced this week was the ap-

Dayton Herald—"The heartfelt good wishes of the American people go out to James Forrestal as he begins his new job as Secretary of Defense."

Hartford Courant—"The United States will be in a stronger position in this era of international poker playing now that its defense is effectively organized at least at the top."

San Francisco Chronicle—"For Forrestal there are no precedents. Not only is the job brand new—and three times as complicated as his last one—but his forces are striking out into a wilderness of new and fantastic modes of battle."

Baltimore Sun—"President Truman's order for the swearing in of Mr. James V. Forrestal as Secretary of Defense on Wednesday 'because of the international situation' introduced a note of urgency which could be exaggerated far beyond its importance."

New York Herald Tribune—"It is rather ironical that the great project of integrating the armed services of the United States, which had been pulled and hauled so slowly through thickets of thorny debate and quagmires of inertia for months, was at last put in operation with a sudden little spurt, five days before the scheduled time."

Washington Star—"Defense Secretary Forrestal's

organization, being new and untried, faces a grave period of trial and error."

Wyoming State Tribune—"President Truman and other top officials at Washington must consider the international situation acute indeed when James Forrestal is sworn in as Secretary of Defense a week earlier than the date scheduled."

New York News—"The New Department of Defense is now a going concern, James V. Forrestal having been sworn in as its first Secretary on hurry-up orders from President Truman."

Worcester Telegram—"It is a jittery world. Even a routine move by the President takes on a special significance and has to be explained."

pointment of John H. Ohly as Special Assistant to the Secretary of Defense. His duties in general will be to assist the Secretary in maintaining liaison with the National Security Council, the National Security Resources Board, and the various agencies within the National Military Establishment. This Special Assistant will either serve personally as secretary of the War Council or will designate a member of his staff to serve in that capacity. Mr. Ohly was formerly associated in the War Department with Secretary of War Patterson.

This completes the appointments of three Special Assistants authorized by the National Security Act of 1947. The other two Special Assistants are:

W. J. McNeil, whose duties are to assist the Secretary of Defense with regard to fiscal, budgetary and administrative matters, and Marx Leva, whose duties are to assist the Secretary with regard to legal matters, including legislation.

Others on the staff of the Secretary of Defense are: Capt. Robert W. Berry, USN, Assistant for Public Relations; Capt. Charles A. Buchanan, USN, Naval Aide, and Capt. Edward E. Elder, USMC, Marine Aide.

President Truman 23 Sept. announced the appointment of Gordon Gray, Winston-Salem, N. C., publisher and attorney, as Assistant Secretary of the Army. He was sworn in the following day in the office of Secretary of the Army Royall.

Mr. Gray's principal duties will be to handle relations between the Department of the Army and other departments of the Government. Born in Baltimore, Md., in 1909, Mr. Gray practiced law in New York City and Winston-Salem for five years. He volunteered for the Army in 1942 and in 1943 completed Officer Candidate School at Fort Benning, Ga., and was commissioned a second lieutenant in Infantry. He served in the European Theater with Tactical Headquarters of the Twelfth Army Group. At the time of his relief from active duty in 1945 he held the rank of captain.

Secretary of the Air Force Symington 22 Sept. announced the appointment of Stephen F. Leo as Director of Public Relations of the Department of the Air Force, the top Air Force public relations assignment.

For the past ten months Mr. Leo has been civilian adviser to the Director of Information of the Army Air Forces, having been released from a Military Government assignment in Germany to assume that position.

Maj. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell, Jr., who has been Director of Information in the AAF, will become Director of Air Information in the USAF.

Mr. Leo served in the AAF during the war, advancing from private to captain and serving in the Southwest Pacific area and the China-Burma-India Theater.

Sports Front

Last week-end Army scrimmaged with Rutgers and Navy dined with Washington. The chief thing the two sessions proved was that neither outfit is spectacularly weak.

Contact work against strange men and strange plays was the chief benefit. If either coach opened up with anything out of the ordinary, it was strictly off the record, as neither Red Blaik nor Tom Hamilton are showing their hole cards before they have to. In fact, secrecy is so much the order of the day that Glenn Davis, off duty and in civvies, was repeatedly refused admission to a West Point practice.

Today (27 Sept.) both academy teams pry off the lid against opponents who won handily last week. Navy tangles with California on the coast, and Army meets Villanova's Wildcats at West Point. Next week (4 Oct.) Army plays Colorado at the Point, while Navy faces Columbia in its only Annapolis game.

Little is known about Colorado except that, since the days of Whizzer White, Rocky Mountain football has not been as strong as the brand played in many other parts of the country. However, the boys from Boulder will come east primed to snap Army's win string (provided Villanova hasn't beaten them to it, which is a strong possibility), and they loom as a distinct threat, as does every team the Cadets face.

As for Columbia, any team coached by Lon Little is a potential wrecker. Unless handed a shellacking by California, the Midshipmen should go in as favorites, but the Lions thrive on the role of underdog. This one may well be of more than passing interest.

Industrial Mobilization Planning

Studies of war manpower problems have been initiated by the Army and Navy Munitions Board. From its study of the subject, the Board will derive policies to incorporate in the U.S. Industrial Mobilization Plan.

Results of the studies, prior to being submitted to a war manpower advisory committee, which will be representative of labor, management, agriculture and government, will be examined and commented upon by the Army and Navy Munitions Board War Manpower Consulting Group. The war manpower advisory committee will be organized after the studies have been developed into tentative plans and operational procedures.

The smaller consulting unit, the War Manpower Consulting Group, is to be comprised of the following eight authorities on manpower:

Laurence Appley, Vice President, Montgomery Ward Company, Chicago;
Robert C. Goodwin, Director, United States Employment Service;
William Haber, Department of Economics, University of Michigan;
Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Director of Selective Service;
Ralph Hetzel, Jr., Assistant on Labor Relations to the Secretary of Commerce;
Russell C. McCarthy, Executive Director, Industrial Management Council, Rochester, N. Y.;
Clarence B. Randall, Vice President, Inland Steel Company, Chicago;
Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, Labor Relations Advisor, New York City.

Nat. Guard Association

The National Guard Association of the United States concluded its 69th annual conference at Columbus, Ohio 20 Sept., by unanimously electing Maj. Gen. Ellard A. Walsh, Adjutant General of Minnesota, for his fifth consecutive term as president.

Prior to the election, delegates reaffirmed the Association's traditional policies pertaining to the security of the nation, its foreign policy and its armed forces in a nine-point resolution.

The resolution:

1. Urged the United States to accept its destiny as a leader among the nations of the world so that a just and lasting peace might be achieved.

2. Advocated the development and advancement of a sound military policy, complemented by a vigorous foreign policy predicated on the "proposition of balancing our foreign commitments with our power but with a substantial portion of that power in reserve and which in so doing will enhance the peace and security of the world."

3. Called upon the people of the nation and Congress to maintain in time of peace the Armed Forces and in proportion to the position of United States leadership among the nations of the world.

4. Pledged, as a matter of continuing policy, that the Association will help acquaint the people of the nation with the history and development of the military policy of the United States and to support the efforts of the Civilian Components and patriotic organizations for the maintenance and support of the Armed Forces.

5. Pledged that the National Guard will continue to serve in peace as it did in war to the end that this nation will at all times have an adequate Armed Force in being. And it called upon Labor and Management to support the National Guard in its service.

6. Called upon Congress to enact during the life of the 80th session a system of Universal Military Training substantially in accord with the recommendations contained in the report of the Presidential Advisory Committee on Universal Military Training and the plans promulgated by the War Department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Organized Reserve Corps and the National Guard.

7. Pledged to work increasingly to improve the status of the Reserve components of the Armed Forces and urged that legislation be enacted by the 80th Congress establishing a moderate system of non-disability retirement for the civilian personnel of the Reserve components.

8. Urged that Congress enact, during the 80th session, a measure to provide the facilities, including armories, necessary for the housing and peacetime training of the National Guard.

9. Pledged that it will wage unrelenting war against all subversive elements and notably against Communism and Communists "who ever seek to destroy our democratic institution and substitute therefor a totalitarian regime."

The Association elected Maj. Gen. Leo M. Kreber, commanding general of Ohio's 37th Division, as vice president to succeed Brig. Gen. James C. Dozier, Adjutant General of South Carolina. Brig. Gen. Fred M. Waterbury of New York was re-elected secretary and Brig. Gen. Milton R. McLean of Kansas was re-elected treasurer.

Brig. Gen. George M. Carter of Maine and Col. Hampton Anderson of New York were elected vice presidents from the 1st Army Area for three-year terms. Brig. Gen. Raymond H. Fleming of Louisiana and Brig. Gen. Charles G. Sage of New Mexico were elected vice presidents from the 4th Army Area, also for three years.

The Association concluded its conference by accepting an invitation from the Kentucky delegation and the governor of that state to hold the 70th conference in Louisville next year.

UNITED STATES ARMY

Lauds Occupation Forces

Returning this week from an inspection of Occupation activities in Germany, Representative L. Mendel Rivers (D-S. C.) told the Army and Navy Journal that Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay and his staff are doing an excellent job in the occupied zone. Saying that "Congress did not give enough money to handle the occupation situation" the Congressman stated that "with adequate authorizations and appropriations the Army will do a 'bang-up' job there and that if General Clay is allowed to pick his staff he will select men who will do a good job. Representative Rivers spoke particularly of the strength given the staff by the membership on it of Lt. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner.

For occupation purposes in Germany and Japan, Representative Rivers gave it as his opinion that 670,000 ground forces should be provided, and that sufficient funds should be appropriated for carrying on the civil functions of the mission.

Other comments of the Congressman were that it should be remembered that Occupation work is a new venture for the United States and that the occupation forces deserve the greatest credit for the fine work they are doing; that the morale of the troops is high; they are well housed; families of married personnel are being well taken care of; the officers are contented; and the graves registration is being carried on efficiently.

Representative Rivers spoke highly of the fact that teachers are being sent there to care for the schooling of the children of all personnel.

General Gross Quits N. Y.

Maj. Gen. Charles P. Gross, USA-Ret., war-time chief of the Army Transportation Corps, this week submitted his resignation as Chairman of the Board of Transportation of New York City, a post to which he was appointed by former Mayor La Guardia in 1945. General Gross' resignation was in the form of a request for retirement to be effective next month.

General Gross' resignation came about, he said, as the result of "hostility" to him and his policies by two other members of the board and the failure of Mayor O'Dwyer to give him proper support in his administration. "I prefer to get out rather than to yield to it," General Gross said. "To combat it can only result in disintegration and frustration of effort."

Army Exchange Graduates

Col. William H. Kendall, Chief of Army Exchange Service, Office of the Chief of Special Services, presented certificates of graduation to 36 Exchange Officers for having completed the first ten-week course on Army Exchange management at the Special Services School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J., 17 Sept.

Two new Exchange courses to provide Exchange personnel with opportunity to obtain a general working knowledge of management of Post Exchanges will open at the school on 9 Oct. They include a second ten-week Exchange course for regular Exchange Officers and a new five-week course for civilian Exchange Managers. On the same date, the first Army Recreational Officers course will open for a ten-week period.

At the recent graduation held in the Army Theater at Ft. Monmouth, Col. Roger W. Goldsmith, new Commandant at the Special Services School, extended greetings to the class. Chief Justice of Guam

The Secretary of the Navy this week approved the appointment of Mr. John C. Fischer as Presiding Justice of the Court of Appeals of Guam. The Guam Court of Appeals is at present composed of two Guamanians, an Army officer and a Marine Corps officer, with a Naval officer as presiding justice. Upon Mr. Fischer's elevation to the bench about 1 Oct., the Naval officer presiding will be released to other duty.

The decision to appoint such a judge grew out of the study and recommendations concerning the Naval administration of Guam made by the Hopkins Committee, which recommended that an experienced and well-trained lawyer with considerable background and knowledge of real estate problems be appointed to adjudicate all condemnation and associated land matters on the island.

Deadline on U. S. Appropriations

The Navy Department this week set 20 Oct. 1947, as a deadline for the submission of applications for transfer of Naval Reserve and Temporary, USN, officers to the Regular Navy under the provisions of Bulver Circular 288-45 and 303-45 applying for permanent status as legal specialists. All requests for transfer as legal specialists must be submitted and in the mail on or before that date.

New Secretary's Message

Secretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan, who was sworn into office 18 Sept., has sent the following message to all ships and stations:

"During World War II the United States Navy became the most powerful in the world. The uncertainties of the times dictate that it must remain the most powerful. Of necessity, the Navy has diminished in numbers of men, ships and planes. Increased efficiency in every phase of Naval activity, both afloat and ashore must offset reductions in size. Our Navy must not lose in stature or deteriorate in performance.

"New developments in aviation, electronics, guided missiles, ordnance, new and improved types of ships and planes, and other components of Naval warfare will be pursued and advanced to insure the continuance of our nation's newly-won position of leadership in world affairs. In the future as in the past, the Navy will fulfill its traditional function as a bulwark against war on American soil.

"Our position of world leadership is a challenge to us to carry out our duties with increased vigor, efficiency, tenacity and imagination. I count on each one of you to join me in taking up that challenge and in working together with the Army and the Air Force as a team to further the readiness of all services to discharge their responsibilities to our nation."

USNA Choir in "Messiah"

The U. S. Naval Academy choir will combine with the choir of Goucher College to present two performances of Handel's "Messiah" for the benefit of the Memorial Organ planned for the Naval Academy Chapel. Both presentations will be held in the Chapel in December.

The presentations have the approval of the Superintendent, Rear Adm. James L. Hollaway, Jr., USN, and the Commandant of Midshipmen, Capt. Frank T. Ward, USN. It is hoped that the presentation will encourage voluntary contributions to the Memorial Organ Fund, established some months ago.

Chicago Magazine describe their respective functions. The Magazine, which contains over 6,000 acres and is a child of World War II, is not yet fully developed, though fulfilling its duty as a Fleet Ammunition Exchange. The Naval Ammunition Depot, of some 222 acres, continues to service the Fleet, as it has done for generations. It is as traditional as the Navy Yard.

The Marine Barracks, Mare Island, polices all parts of Mare Island including the Naval Ammunition Depot except the Retraining Command, which has its own Marine Guard. It too is a part of the local tradition. It is of interest that the present Colonel-Commanding served here as a private in World War I.

The Hospital is another old-timer. It is the only permanently constructed Naval Hospital in the San Francisco Bay Area. The Department designated it as the Amputee Center for the whole Pacific Area in World War II. It pioneered all such work for the entire Navy, and developed certain prostheses which have been of great help to the entire Nation. There is a move now on foot to duplicate the shop and its methods somewhere in the Bay area to serve civilians. It is felt that the proven efficiency of the program which has graduated over 2,000 amputees should not be allowed to dissipate during the general period of retrenchment.

The Retraining Command is just one year old. It is a post war program for rehabilitating especially selected Naval G.C.M. prisoners for return to duty where merit is proved. It gives a man his chance to retrieve his self respect and that of his loved ones by earning an honorable discharge, thus avoiding the stigma of a lesser type of discharge. It certainly is worth while from the point of view of human salvage, as well as from the economic one. For it permits a man to again become a useful member of society. The record of the success of the plan is noteworthy.

The largest activity on Mare Island is what, since 30 November 1945, has been known as the Naval Shipyard. On that date its predecessor, the Navy Yard Mare Island, since 1854, was disestablished. I happen to have been the 53rd and last Commandant of that Yard.

The current personnel rolling is a bit over 10,000. Mare Island's 2,333 acres and the number of its workers make it one of the larger yards—probably the largest. The Yard fairly breathes tradition, with concomitant effectiveness. Grandpop, Pop and Buddy traditionally work on the Yard, which they refer to as "our" Yard. With this condition for a solid foundation, there should never be serious labor troubles here.

During the war the Yard went all out to take care of the families of the Navy, so that personnel returning from the combat areas could enjoy their brief stays away from it and hence return to it roused to the utmost for further combat. The Yard has over 2,100 sets of married quarters. There are three swimming pools, three movie theaters, three recreation centers. The night lighting on one of the several baseball fields is believed second to none. If there are better bowling alleys, I have yet to see them. Mention almost anything for the good of the Service, and Mare Island will have it.

Vallejo, which censused some 20,000 souls in 1940 now musters something over 90,000. It is no longer a village. It is a city—a virtually one-industry city—and that industry is Mare Island. Mare Island has all of the ship repairs that it can quickly do, despite its reputation as one of the best of all repair yards. The Mare Island letterhead reads "Our Sole Mission is to Serve the Fleet." That describes quite exactly just what the Mission is. Mare Island is a 30-foot draft Yard, which means it can berth almost any vessel of the active Pacific Fleet. There are only some seven ships which draw too much water to be berthed here.

The Mare Island Group of the Pacific Reserve Fleet is large. The excellent berthing space for it was especially constructed. There is no reason why the reserve ships here should not be kept in first-class condition; ready to be reactivated when needed and when crews are provided.

When the Monticello Dam Project is completed, Mare Island-Vallejo will have cheap water, which should attract outside industries to the area, especially as it is doubtful that there is any better all-year-round climate anywhere. This will have a definite value to Mare Island because of the expanded labor market.

Mare Island, with its proved efficiency, its location, the climate which permits out-of-doors working the greater part of the year, its sheltered anchorage, and the tradition behind it, will continue to be one of the most important logistic supports to the Navy for as long as we have a Navy.

Language and Area Training

The Army has established a broad and comprehensive program for training officers in foreign languages and intelligence matters for specified areas.

The mission, composition and control of the program is explained in detail in War Department Circular 260.

The circular states:

"1. Mission.—A comprehensive program is hereby established to provide for the training of selected military personnel in foreign languages and in the intelligence aspects of specific areas in order to create qualified linguists and area specialists to meet the requirements incident to occupation of foreign countries, military missions, foreign liaison, and the collection and evaluation of intelligence.

"2. Scope.—a. Languages for which training will be provided are Russian, Japanese, Chinese, Turkish, Greek, Persian, Arabic, Korean, Spanish, Portuguese, and French. From time to time this list may be augmented to meet special requirements.

"b. Courses will be varied in length in accordance with the difficulty of the language. Straight language courses will vary from 4 months for the Romance languages to approximately 1 year for the more difficult languages.

"c. Language and area training will be provided for selected officers and will extend up to 4 years in length. Normally 1 to 2 years will be spent at institutions within the United States and 1 to 2 years overseas.

"3. Composition.—Language and/or language and area training will be provided at the following schools:

"a. Army Language School, Monterey, Calif.

"b. Yale University, New Haven, Conn.

"c. Columbia University, New York City.

"d. Princeton University, Princeton, N. J.

"e. Detachment "S," Tokyo, Japan.

"f. War Department Language School, Peiping, China.

"g. European Command Intelligence School (Detachment "R"), Oberammergau, Germany.

"h. American University, Beirut, Lebanon.

"(4) Supervision and review of curricula at

Division, War Department General Staff, will be responsible for—

"(1) Supervising the operation and administration of the Army Language School.

"(2) Establishment of eligibility criteria for individuals to be selected for language or language and area training.

"(3) The allocation of quotas to the Army Air Forces, War Department agencies, and the administrative and technical services.

"(4) Supervision and review of curricula at those civilian universities, overseas schools, and detachments listed in paragraph 3.

"b. The commanders of those organizations which are shown in the charts in paragraph 7 will be responsible for the selection of officers to fill their allotted quotas.

"c. The administration of student officers will be in accordance with the provisions of WD Circular 187, 1947."

Following university training, students of Russian will be assigned to Detachment "R" at Oberammergau, Germany for their area training, while students of Chinese will be ordered to the War Department Language School at Peiping for similar training.

Language-area students in Turkish, Persian and Arabic are scheduled to receive second year training at Princeton University, and thereafter at the American University, Beirut, Lebanon.

Students of Russian and Japanese language-area training for 1947 have been selected.

In the courses devoted exclusively to language study, Russian will be studied for one year, as will Japanese, Chinese, Turkish, Arabic, Greek, Persian, and Korean. Classes in Russian will begin at two month intervals, with classes in the other languages mentioned above scheduled to start approximately every six months. Four months of study will be devoted to Spanish, Portuguese and French.

Quotas for language and language-area courses will in general be allotted on the basis of 50 per cent for Army Ground Forces, 40 per cent for the US Air Force, and 10 per cent for the technical services. Initial language classes are expected to enroll 368 students. For the first year of language-area training, provisions have been made for 38 students.

The Department of the Army emphasized that language-area students must be volunteers who are fully qualified in their basic arm of service and qualified for general staff duties; they must not have reached their 31st birthday, must be officers of the Regular Army, have a proven aptitude for languages and an efficiency rating indicative of high performance of duty in general staff assignments. Straight language students must be younger than 36 years of age, have a proven aptitude for languages, be in the Regular Army or Category I, and have an efficiency rating indicative of high performance of duty in future assignments.

Personnel other than that of the US Air Force interested in language or language-area training should submit applications through channels to the Commander of their major force or technical or administrative service. Air Force personnel should make application through channels to Headquarters, Department of the Air Force.

The History of Patton's
Third U. S. Army

by COL. ROBERT S. ALLEN

Co-author of "Washington Merry-Go-Round"

The chief of Patton's Combat Intelligence throughout the campaigns in the ETO has poured out here at fever heat the first-hand, authoritative, inside account of "LUCKY'S" triumphant sweep across Europe. He has done more. He has answered some pretty unpleasant questions—without fear or favor: What was the reason for the Battle of the Bulge? How were the Germans able to surprise us? Why was Third Army kept from ending the war in 1944?

LUCKY FORWARD is hard-hitting, hard-fighting, controversial—and important. For the 600,000 veterans of Third Army it's their own story—told by one of their own men. With hitherto unavailable battle maps and photographs. $5.00 at your bookstore or from

Pilotless C-54 Crosses Atlantic

The U. S. Air Force successfully completed another experiment with its automatic flight control system 22 Sept. when a pilotless Douglas C-54 "Skymaster" landed at Brise Norton, 40 miles west of London, England, after a completely automatic, 2400-mile, trans-Atlantic flight from Stephenville, Newfoundland.

The four engine transport took off from Stephenville, at 6 P.M. EDT, and landed at Brise Norton 10 hours and 15 minutes later, according to word received in Air Force Headquarters from the American Embassy in London.

The plane, which is assigned to the All-Weather Flying Division at Wilmington, Ohio, carried an emergency crew of nine, but no human hand touched the controls on the entire flight. The automatic flight was accomplished by self-controlled, pre-set mechanisms. No "mother" ship is required for this type of operation.

The flight was commanded by Col. James M. Gillespie, Chief of the All-Weather Flying Division and, in addition to the emergency crew, carried five observers representing other Air Force offices, the Royal Air Force, and the Sperry Gyroscope Company. The group will spend approximately two weeks in England, demonstrating the equipment to Royal Air Force units.

Besides Colonel Gillespie, other members of the crew were: Capt. Thomas J. Wells, co-pilot; Capt. Roman J. Whiting, navigator; Capt. Frank G. Shea, assistant navigator; James L. Anast, Chief of the Automatic Flying Branch of the All-Weather Flying Center; George B. Johnson, project engineer; T. Sgt. Walter W. McKee, crew chief; S. Sgt. John C. Nemon, engineer; T. Sgt. Raymond Centella, radio operator.

Passengers included Maj. Thomas F. Weldon, Chief of the Flying Research Section of the All-Weather Flying Center; Charles Franklin, Communications and Navigation Branch, Air Materiel Command; W. W. Downs, Sperry Gyroscope Company, Inc.; and Group Capt.

UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

H. E. Boxer and Wing Comdr. T. R. Jeff, of the Royal Air Force.

The automatic C-54 carried approximately 3,700 gallons of fuel for the trip.

Second AF Commander

Maj. Gen. Paul L. Williams, USAF, is the new commander of the Second Air Force with headquarters at Offutt Field, Omaha. General Williams, who relinquishes command of the Ninth Air Force at Greenville, S. C., will be assisted by Brig. Gen. Walter R. Peck who continues as the Second's deputy commander.

Maj. Gen. Frederick W. Evans, former commander of the Second, has become a patient at Fitzsimons General Hospital at Denver.

As head of the Ninth Troop Carrier Command during World War II he was responsible for the air lift for the mass landings in North Africa, Sicily, Italy, Normandy, Southern France, Holland and Germany, including transport for the famous 17th, 82nd and 101st Airborne Divisions. His C-47s also were largely responsible for the air supply of General George Patton's Third Army in its spectacular drive across Europe.

7th Bomb. Group to Get B-36's

Delivery of the B-36 to the very heavy bombardment squadrons of the 7th Bomb. Group here is expected to begin in November. It was announced at Hq. Eighth Air Force recently. It is contemplated that the B-36 will replace the B-29's with which the 7th Bomb. Group is now equipped.

In order to afford airplane commanders and engineers an opportunity to obtain transition flying in this craft prior to delivery in Nov., ten pilots and five engineers are to be ordered to the Consolidated plant in Fort Worth where the plane is manufactured.

The 7th Bomb. Group, commanded by Col. Alan D. Clark, AC, is the first organization to be assigned this latest long range aerial weapon.

CAP Air Marking Program

The installation of air markers throughout the United States as an aerial navigation aid is a project in which the Civil Air Patrol has been active for several years and which now shows excellent results.

Many states are now air marked through the efforts of the CAP. A few of these are: Illinois, 85 air markers as of April; Indiana, 41 as of May; Iowa 25 as of February; New Jersey 31 as of September; Utah 45 as of April (CAP air marked with no outside help); and South Carolina, 188 markers completed by CAP and the State Aeronautics Commission.

Early this year the National Headquarters of CAP was informed that the Civil Aeronautics Administration had a small appropriation which had been set aside for air marking and marking paint that this appropriation would buy was placed at the disposal of CAP. Many Wings are being aided by Chambers of Commerce and other local agencies.

An example of efficient marking work is the current program in Georgia which was given considerable publicity last week through the gathering of Airmade of some 50 light planes at Atlanta, from which point it proceeded to Albany, Ga., to install a marker.

The Georgia Wing, commanded by Col. Jesse L. Dobbins, this year put up $2,500 and is sponsoring the program in that state. The Wing sends a member, Lt. Lucy Green, to select a suitable roof for marking, arrange with the building owner for its use, contact local city officials and organizations to aid in the installation, and then outline the marker on the roof chosen. In many cases municipal labor is donated as well as traffic marking paint. To date 45 markers have been installed in Georgia and ten more are planned for the next few days.

Col. Robert L. Scott, Jr., CAP Deputy National Commander, flew from Washington with other members of National Headquarters to join in the marker painting ceremonies at Albany, Ga.

USAF Recruits Score High

More than three-fourths of U. S. Air Force recruits score high enough in intelligence and aptitude tests to qualify them for almost any of the USAF technical schools, according to a recent analysis based on tests given enlistees arriving at the San Antonio, Tex., basic training center during July and August.

Over 76 per cent of the enlistees made scores of 100 or higher on their Army General Classification Test. A perfect AGCT score would be 160. A score of 120, which is considered high, is required for attendance at Officer Candidate School, and a score of 100 will qualify an enlistee for most of the USAF technical schools. A minimum score of 90 is required for enlistment in the Air Force.

In addition, a survey of students enlisting for specific training under the Air Force aviation career plan disclosed that the average AGCT score of those now taking the course was 123.

Pilot to Air Force Sec.

Maj. Morris W. Moomaw, former commander of the 31st Squadron, Third Air Transport Group (Prov.), ATC, has been appointed personal pilot for W. Stuart Symington, new Secretary of the Air Force.

Bomber Classification

The B-29, once classified as a "very heavy" bomber, now falls in the "medium" category.

A letter sent by United States Air Force Headquarters to all USAF commanding generals and commanding officers classifies bombardment aircraft as follows:

Heavy Bomber—B-35 and B-36; Medium Bomber—B-29 and B-50; Light Bomber—A-26 and B-45.

USAF Medical Examiners

One hundred officers of the Medical Corps were graduated from the course for Aviation Medical Examiners at the USAF School of Aviation Medicine, Randolph Field, Tex., 12 Sept.

The exercises included musical selections by the 633rd USAF Band. Chaplain Thomas F. Shea delivered the Invocation and Chaplain Hudson B. Phillips the Benediction. The graduation address was made by Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner, Commanding General, Tenth Air Force.

The following received diplomas:

Maj. Humberto H. Cabrera, Mexican Army; MC.
Maj. Marcial Baesa, Army of Chile.

Eighth Air Force

Ft. Worth, Tex.—The Eighth Air Force, already in the throes of growing pains because of the recent assignment of Kearney Army Air Field, Neb. and Clovis Army Air Field, N. M., has also added a very heavy bombardment and fighter group to its station list.

These latest assignments are: 2d Bombardment Group (VH) to Davis-Monthan Field, Tucson, Ariz. and the 33d Fighter Group to Roswell AAF, N. M. At present, the 43d Bomb. Group (VH) is based at Davis-Monthan and the 509th Bomb. Group at Roswell.

According to Col. John D. Ryan, Eighth Air Force A-3, the 2d Bomb. Group at Davis-Monthan will be equipped with the superb B-29 but will not be atom bomb carrying. It will be part of the Strategic Air Command's mobile air force supporting its striking echelon of atomic planes.

The 33d Fighter Group at Roswell, to be furnished the P-51 long range fighter, will be employed to afford top cover to bombardment units. It will have assigned seventy-five fighter craft when it attains its authorized complement.

Space being critical at Roswell necessitated the transfer of the 1st Air Transport Unit to Fort Worth Army Air Field, Tex. This squadron of C-54s is the supporting organization for the long ranging superforts of the Eighth which during the past few months have flown training missions to the far flung Pacific expanses, Japan, Brazil, Europe and the Caribbean.

placed in use by the Army next month. Study of USAF requirements, however, has resulted in a considerable down grading in the service in grade provisions for the various ranks. This will be several years less than that required by the Army in each category.

Additional selection boards to consider promotion to the grades of lieutenant colonel, major and captain in the USAF will be named later and will probably convene in March or April of next year.

It is also expected that temporary promotion of officers will be resumed in the USAF within a short time. The exclusion of Army Air Force officers from the general reduction of colonels which applied to the rest of the Army has created a situation in which some officer shortages can now be filled.

It is understood that a considerable number of promotions to the temporary ranks of major and captain will be made.

Army—Air Force Integration

The last increment of officers taken into the Regular Army and Air Force under the provision of Public Law 281, which expires 31 Dec., will consist of approximately 6,000.

The names of the successful candidates will be released by the Department of the Army and the Department of the Air Force on or about 10 Oct.

Except for a group of Medical Department officers and a small group whose applications were not completely processed this will be the last increment under the Second Regular Army and Air Force Integration Program.

Present indications are that this third 1947 increment will contain the names of approximately 4,000 Air Force officers, 1,500 Technical and Administrative officers and 500 Ground Forces officers.

The October increment will bring to almost 28,000 the number of officers nominated for the Regular Army since the first increment of June, 1946, when 9,800 were selected for Regular commissions. About 950 more officers were accepted later in 1946. The first increment of the 1947 program, in January, numbered over 1,800 and the May list contained approximately 9,200 names.

With the close of the Second Regular Army Integration Program, Regular officers will be secured from all available sources. These include the US Military Academy, college ROTC graduates, officer candidate school graduates, aviation cadet system, direct commissions to Regular enlisted personnel, and from Reserve and National Guard officers on competitive tours. Blanket authority for the current integration program and future expansion of the Regular officer corps, is contained in Congressional legislation which sets the Regular officer strength at 50,000. Including officers already in the Regular establishments prior to the integration programs, there will be approximately 40,000 Regulars after the October increment is confirmed by the Senate.

Bury Bombs Alive

Shortage of magazine storage space for the large quantity of ammunition now on hand has led to the development by the Ordnance Department of a process of burying bombs alive to preserve them.

Called "Operation Buried Alive," this new project gives every promise of being completely successful. It can eliminate need for new magazine construction, cut surveillance to a minimum; and will make no longer necessary periodic inspections.

About 250 gross tons of bombs are being buried alive in each grave at Savanna Ordnance Depot in northwestern Illinois where operational procedures are being worked out.

Gen. Parker's Assignment

Maj. Gen. E. P. Parker, according to information received from Fifth Army Headquarters, will join that organization as Deputy Commanding General and not as Chief of Staff as announced in the 13 Sept. issue of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL following receipt of an announcement from Europe.

Disposition of Personal Property

The Department of the Army is expected to ask for legislation at the next session of Congress authorizing the disposition of certain lost or abandoned personal property coming under its jurisdiction. Statutory authority is desired for the disposition of lost or abandoned effects of unknown persons. The Soldiers' Home would be the recipient of such property or of the interest from the sale of the property.

The bill would authorize the Soldiers' Home to sell such property at public or private sale at the expiration of three years from its receipt.

Avoiding all personal and political bias, its influence will be directed solely to the inculcation of sound military ideas, and to the elevation of the public service in all its departments."—From Vol. 1, No. 1, of the Army and Navy Journal, published August 29, 1903.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1947

"If we manifest to the world an attitude of firmness, of justice, and of unflinching and patient determination, we may be able to assure mankind that it will not again be exposed to the waste and squalor of war."—SECRETARY FORRESTAL.

THE urgency with which General of the Army Eisenhower and other distinguished Army, Navy, and Air Force leaders are stressing the necessity of maintaining and expanding our military, naval and air power is thoroughly justified by the threat implicit in the diatribe against the United States made by Chief Delegate Vishinsky of the Soviet Delegation before the United Nations. The wild charges of the communist spokesman constituted an incitement to satellite governments and fellow workers and travelers to increase their activities, even to the point of committing military offenses against us such as have been occurring at Trieste where further seizures of and outrages upon American soldiers have occurred, and in Korea where there have been frontier incidents. The usual procedure of aggressors when determined upon ambitious goals is to claim that the Nation to be assaulted, is engaged in preparation for war. This was the course of Hitler; it is obviously now that of Moscow. It was underscored by the Vishinsky allegation that "Members of the Government of the United States, acting under the control of capitalist monopolist imperialists, are engaged in preparation for a war against the Soviet Union that have gone already beyond the propaganda stage." In the light of this further confirmation of Soviet hostility and purpose to continue the policies which not merely postpone the arrival of even an uneasy peace but are provocative of war—the word "provocative" is that of Mr. Austin—it would be destructive to our security to fail to provide to the full limit the funds which the Services will require in order to be adequate to meet the peril hanging over us and, perhaps, by the fact of our preparation, to avert it. Thoroughly aware of this, the President and the Secretary of Defense, Mr. Forrestal, have ordered the Army, Navy, and Air Force to submit estimates that, in their judgment, will enable them to carry out the Directive which is the one interpretation Washington places upon the exposition of American policy Secretary of State and General of the Army Marshall made before the United Nations. Realizing that the policy must be observed and enforced, if necessary, and informed by the Administration as well as by personal investigation abroad by several hundred members of Congress, there is every reason to believe that the heavily increased budget which the Commander-in-Chief will submit, will be granted in spite of the drive for economy. This increase will apply particularly to the Air, not only because of its needs as set forth by General Spaatz, but because it is imperative that our airplane industry shall have sufficient orders to insure maintenance of Service strength. This is regarded as essential by Senator Gurney, the far-seeing chairman of the Senate Armed Forces Committee. With a Soviet Government such as is in control of the Russian people, we have discovered that appeasement, or even courtesy, is fruitless, and that there is no other course for us to pursue than to insist upon our rights and our freedom aims. The Budget and the favorable attitude thereon which is expected from Congress, will impress Moscow with our determination to carry out the policies Secretary Marshall is defining. So impressed, perhaps Soviet aggression will be arrested; if not we will at least be as ready as possible in a situation that even Secretary Lie of the UN, has described as dangerous to peace.

THE speed of modern warfare, the vast distances embraced in global conflict, and particularly the growing importance of electronics, has placed an unprecedented burden of responsibility upon the Signal Corps and the civilian industry with which it must work in close coordination. World War II wrought an enormous expansion upon the Signal Corps, both in the increase of its traditional functions and in the addition of new duties brought about by new weapons and devices. The Signal Corps was not established until 1863, the first Chief Signal Officer being a former Army Surgeon, Col. Albert C. Meyer, whose interest in the deaf led him to invent the semaphore, or wigwag, system of signalling, but the age of industry and invention, coupled with the driving influence of officers of the Signal Corps and the genius and research of industry, has made it an indispensable link in the military chain without which strategy and tactics would be in chaos. In its search for more efficient and speedy methods of communications the Signal Corps became a pioneer in aeronautics. In 1892 it set up a balloon section and 15 years later, when heavier-than-air had demonstrated its practicability, an Aeronautical Division was set up in the Office of the Chief Signal Officer to develop the potentialities of the single two-seated flying machine it had purchased from the Wright brothers. Thus was born military aviation which is now a separate division. The Signal Corps also is the parent of the present Weather Bureau of the Department of Commerce, which grew out of the Army's weather-reporting system. Its accomplishments in World War II were prodigious. With 360,000 highly trained officers and enlisted men it operated a world-wide communications networks totalling more than 800,000 circuit miles and capable of handling 100,000,000 words per day, it astounded Allies and enemies alike by building a 2,000 mile land line from Calcutta to Kunming, it made a pictorial record of the war unequalled in history, it shaped radar into a deadly weapon for the Army and set the Air Force on its path to further development in that field, and enabled the President and his advisers, during the important conferences at Yalta and Quebec, to be in constant and instantaneous touch with American military and civilian leaders all over the world. In actual battle action Signal troops were often the first to land on beachheads. They furnished and operated the communications for the breakthrough at St. Lo, and were in the forefront in the dash across France and Europe. In the future they will have such additional responsibilities as the interception of enemy missile-guiding messages and the possible confounding of the impulses which control robot weapons.

The Board of Visitors to the Naval Academy, and the Superintendent, are not agreed as to the proper method that should be employed by officers and cadets in saluting the National flag at "colors." The board recommended that the flag be saluted by removing the cap, instead of simply touching it, as at present. The Superintendent says that for military and naval men to remove their headgear when in uniform would be incongruous and contrary to all military practice.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Foreign Affairs—The fury of Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vishinsky's shocking attack on the United States in the United Nations General Assembly, for all the sober and even gloomy reaction to it, does not presage any abandonment of UN by the Russians. Even if continued Soviet membership were not already plainly indicated by the unparalleled opportunities for dissemination of Red propaganda through the UN forum, Vishinsky's bitter speech contained one statement, all but universally overlooked in dispatches, which quite plainly disclaimed any Soviet intentions of war or even a complete diplomatic break—"that nobody is going to attack the United States and that there exists no danger whatsoever for the United States in this respect."

The angry remarks Vishinsky uttered constituted arguments designed to wrest the diplomatic initiative away from Secretary of State Marshall within the UN framework. Thus, despite the alarm implicit in the comments of UN Secretary General Trygve Lie and President Auriol of France on the outbreak of "diplomatic war," that war remains one of words and of ideas. Russia does not want to withdraw from the field of the western world, and her obstructionism in the face of efforts to stabilize world conditions will continue to appear inside, not outside, the world organization. Pravda and Izvestia, foremost Moscow journals, made this clear, in their comments on Vishinsky's speech, by saying it was Russia's presence in the UN which would prevent domination of the world by the United States. What, in effect, is in progress is a diplomatic war with possibilities of expansion that gravely concern the statesmen of the world.

Moscow's distrust of the western powers' motives, and resentment of efforts to build on other than Russian plans, was further indicated by Vishinsky's extension of his warmongering charge to the British and particularly former Prime Minister Churchill, and his denunciation of the continued existence of the Anglo-American Combined Chiefs of Staff organization in Washington.

Except for the bloc of Soviet satellites, the cautious comments of UN delegates on the Marshall-Vishinsky debate in general favored the Marshall statement denouncing Soviet abuse of the veto power in the Security Council and proposing to expand the activity of the General Assembly. Minister of State Hector McNeil, addressing the Assembly for the British, skillfully avoided any commitment to specific positions of either the U. S. or Russia, yet delivered an even more comprehensive indictment of general Soviet policies and behavior than had Secretary Marshall, and said soberly that Russian intransigence could wreck the UN and precipitate war. French Foreign Minister Bidault, in a pessimistic relevel of the schism between the two most powerful nations, denied Vishinsky's charges that the U. S. sought to enslave or divide Europe, or infringe the sovereignty of its nations. On the heels of the bitter debate, Marshall's proposals for an interim committee or "little assembly" and for Korean independence were placed on the Assembly's agenda by its General Committee.

The danger, as always when blunt words bring the disagreements of nations into the open with such harshness, is that an irresponsible action in an inflammable area might precipitate a dangerous situation between two powers which quite obviously have no slightest intention of backing their bitter statements with force. The international zone of Trieste presents such a danger spot. The Yugoslavs, having on 19 Sept. finally released Allied military personnel they had detained, then arrested three more at the border on 22 Sept.—an American officer and two of his men. This was followed by a curt note from Acting Secretary of State Lovett to Tito's government protesting "irresponsible" actions of Yugoslav forces in the Trieste area in presenting "ultimatums" to American and British troops, and warning that such actions were "exceedingly dangerous and likely to precipitate incidents leading to most serious consequences."

In Greece, where a limited number of surrenders indicate that Premier Sophoulis' offer of amnesty has made some inroads in the guerrilla forces fighting the government, a plan to double the Greek armed forces with American approval—and American aid—has been announced. The regular army is to be raised from 130,000 to 200,000, and a National Guard of 70,000 created. The withdrawal of a British battalion from Salonika was described by Sophoulis as the beginning of the general withdrawal of British forces from Greece, although London insisted it was merely a routine shift of the unit and not part of a general evacuation. The British Cabinet decided to accept the majority recommendations of UN Special Committee for partition of Palestine, agreeing to share responsibility for the transition period, but stipulating that Britain would not bear it alone and that the UN must share fully in the implementation of the proposals. The Arab states were reported to be committed to a complete economic and cultural break with Europe and the United States—presumably involving both oil concessions and airline transit privileges—if partitioning is attempted. A report that an American military mission had been sent to Lebanon circulated by Tass, the Russian news agency, was given a "flat denial" by the Army Department.

The question of aid to Europe—both emergency "stop-gap" assistance to meet a food and fuel crisis, and the long-range Marshall Plan for general recovery—have occupied a major part of President Truman's time since he returned to Washington. He let it be known, while asking the American public to join a voluntary food-saving campaign to prevent waste and the creation of a committee to direct the program, that he hoped to arrange the stop-gap aid without a special session of Congress, and leave the Marshall Plan proposals for consideration at the regular session. Both will figure in the bi-partisan meeting of Congressional leaders summoned to the White House for a conference next Monday. The 16-nation plan to implement the Marshall proposals has arrived in Washington from the Paris conference, projecting a four-year 1948-1951 deficit of $22.4 billions, proposing $3.1 billions to be handled by the International Bank and other credit agencies, and leaving $19.3 billions to be dealt with principally by the United States with some credits from the American countries. Definitely removed from the "stop-gap" category, the proposals worked out by the Paris conference envision restoration of pre-war levels of bread and grain production in Europe, and boosting the continent's other food, steel, coal, oil refining, electric generating and transport industries well above pre-war levels by 1951. The President did not detail his emergency aid resources pending the reconvening of Congress in January, but one step apparently was the job of an Army mission sent to the Argentine this week to investigate the corn situation there.

Marine Corps—Adoption of a new reenlistment policy, designed to attract experienced non-commissioned officers by increasing the time limit under which they may reenlist and still retain their former ranks, was announced this week.

Under the old policy, a former officer or master sergeant who applied for reenlistment more than ninety days after separation from service had to reenlist as a private first class. Under the new ruling these men may be appointed to the rank of technical sergeant if they reenlist within one year, or to the rank of staff sergeant if they reenlist within two years.

This sliding scale of reappointment ranks also applies to non-commissioned officers in the lower ranks. A technical sergeant who reenlists within one year may be appointed to the rank of staff sergeant, or to the rank of sergeant if he reenlists within two years. A former staff sergeant may be appointed to the rank of sergeant provided he reenlists within a two-year period.

In order to maintain their present ranks master sergeants must reenlist within 24 hours, excluding Sundays and holidays. Technical sergeants, staff sergeants, and sergeants are allowed a ninety-day period in which to reenlist to hold their rank at the time of discharge. Corporals are allowed a total of one year to reenlist with the rank of corporal.

New Series of Directives—War Department Circulars were discontinued with No. 262, 17 Sept., and the Department of the Army circular series commenced 18 Sept. On the same date War Department Special Orders were supplanted by Department of the Army Special Orders, these also starting a new numbered series.

CHICAGO, ILL.

22 Sept. 1947

Mrs. Walton H. Walker, President of the Headquarters Fifth Army Officers' Wives' Club, opened the club's seventh monthly meeting on 3 Sept., in the Officers' Mess in Headquarters Building.

The club was planned and established in order to bring together, and create entertainment for, wives of officers and warrant officers assigned to Fifth Army Headquarters. The enthusiasm with which this was received is well illustrated by attending members who come from all sections of Chicago, from Michigan City, Gary, and Ft. Sheridan.

Members had voted in July to continue the meeting throughout the summer season, and although attendance in September dropped from an average of eighty, the representative fifty was most gratifying in the face of hot weather and the commuting distances necessary for many to travel.

After lunch and the business meeting, the scheduled entertainment of games followed. There were three tables of bridge, with table prizes of three dollars each. Ten games of Bingo were played, with cash prizes ranging from four to ten dollars.

Financial Digest

A Congressional subcommittee currently investigating food prices will ask the Government to take steps to curb commodity exchange speculation. Testimony before the subcommittee in New York City this week stressed charges that the recent sharp advance in food prices was due largely to speculation in commodities.

The Treasury 22 Sept. formally fixed one per cent as the interest rate on one-year Government borrowing. This will be accomplished through an offering of $1,439 million one-year one per cent certificates in exchange for one-year certificates, maturing 1 Oct. This represents part of the Treasury's program of paying somewhat higher interest rates on short term Government securities.

A summary by the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. shows that loans to farmers by commercial banks are increasing. It was also shown that the banks are taking a larger part in the farm mortgage field.

Three western airlines are expected to file lower air freight tariffs this week. The new rates will average 33½ per cent below current rates. The cuts, by Western Airlines, Inland Airlines, and Southwest Airways, are to meet similar cuts by United Airlines which will become effective 26 Oct.

This was the fifteenth vessel of the American Merchant Marine to be awarded this pennant and the tenth in the Third Naval District.

Capt. Leonard Frisco, USNR, in charge of the Merchant Marine component of the Naval Reserve in the Third Naval District, presented the pennant to Capt. George Van Rensselaer Richardson, USNR, 17 Jefferson Ave., Arlington, N. J., Master of the ship, who accepted in behalf of the United States Lines and the ship's personnel.

SECTION VII. AGREEMENTS ON RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT FUNCTIONS

The following list of proposed actions will provide the groundwork for future cooperation:

1. Functions—The following functions of the Commanding General, Army Air Forces will no longer require War Department approval:

a. The preparation and conduct of a research and development program covering materiel, methods, and techniques for which he has research and development responsibility.

b. The establishment of the military characteristics for materiel used exclusively by the Army Air Forces, and the preparation of recommended military characteristics for other materiel used or intended for use by units of his command.

c. The coordination with the Chiefs of Technical Services concerned and the Commanding General, Army Ground Forces, of the military characteristics of materiel used by units of those agencies which are assigned to the Army Air Forces.

d. Coordination with the Commanding General, Army Ground Forces, and the Chiefs of Technical Services, of the military characteristics of the Army Air Forces materiel required to meet the needs of the Army Ground Forces and the technical services, respectively.

e. The initiation of requests for research and development of those items which are the responsibility of other developing agencies, but which support his own development activities.

f. The conduct and supervision of service tests of types of materiel used exclusively by the Army Air Forces, and for joint or separate supervision of service tests of materiel used jointly with other agencies.

g. The classification of materiel used exclusively by the Army Air Forces, and the preparation of classification actions on other materiel for which he has research and development responsibility.

h. The initiation of requests to the Chiefs of Technical Services, for the classification as to type of materiel developed by those services for use by the Army Air Forces.

i. The establishment of a basis of issue for units assigned to Army Air Forces.

j. The maintenance of a record (Status of Equipment Reports or similar lists) in which are listed all adopted items, by type classification, of materiel procured by the Army Air Forces.

adopted items of material conform to approved military characteristics.

2. Projects—A. General.

Initial assignment of projects will be as shown in the War Department list of projects as of 30 June 1947. Thereafter it appears inevitable that each specific project will have to be resolved on its particular merits. For example, in the field of aircraft armament, the Ordnance Department will probably continue research and development work, even though the Air Force might understandably desire to perform some of this work themselves.

h. Meteorological Equipment Research and Development.

Responsibilities for meteorological equipment research and development will continue as at present subject to further coordination and later determination.

c. Guided Missile Program.

The Air Force will continue their responsibility for the research and development activities pertaining to guided missiles in the Army and the Air Force as prescribed. The duties of the Director of Research and Development, WDGS, will be continued by the Director of Research and Development, GS, USA, until such time as they may be taken over by the Research and Development Board of the National Military Establishment.

3. Inter-Service Coordination.—In order to provide a better medium at the Department level for insuring coordination as between the Army, Navy and Air Force, it is proposed to broaden the operational concept of the War Department Research Council. The functions and responsibilities under this concept should be so defined as to ensure that there exists in each the Army, Navy and Air Forces an organization performing similar function concerning those Research and Development matters within the primary cognizance of the Department concerned as is consistent with the differences with the command structure of the three Departments. Clearly, for example, the Air Force and Navy should be represented on the Army Council with authority to ensure that, where necessary, disputed matters would be referred to Research and Development Board for resolution. It is not contemplated, however, that a change would be required in the authority currently assigned to this Council. The existing technical committees of the technical services would continue to function as prescribed in War Department Circular 126, 17 May 1947. In addition, they would inform this Council of their action.

4. Personnel.—a. The number of officers from Air Force to be assigned to Army Research and development and vice versa will be worked out by mutual agreement.

b. Air Force officers now on duty with Research and Development Division will be released in accordance with an agreed table.

5. Budget.—On Air Force projects included in appropriation titles Air Corps-Army and being or to be accomplished by the technical services, the Air Force should continue to prepare and defend the estimates, receive the funds, and allot to the technical services the amount involved for services rendered. Similar action will be taken on Army projects being accomplished by the Air Force.

6. Responsibility Change.—The Research and Development Division, WDGS, loses no functions or responsibility except the review and approval of those functions listed in paragraph 1 above.

SECTION VIII. AGREEMENTS ON BUDGETARY FUNCTIONS

1. Fiscal Year 1949 Budget.—Formulation of policies to govern submission of the Fiscal Year 1949 Budget has been the subject of correspondence between Mr. Forrestal and Mr. Royall, and between the latter and Mr. Symington. Mr. Royall, with the concurrence of Mr. Symington, has recommended the following with respect to the Fiscal Year 1949 Budget:

a. A single budget will be submitted for the War Department (Department of the Army), this budget to include estimates of funds required for the support of the Air Force.

b. Each budget program making up the total budget will indicate the amounts which are included for the support of the Air Force.

c. This budget will be reviewed by the existing Budget Advisory Committee. Recommendations of the Committee to be submitted to both the Chief of Staff and the Commanding General, Army Air Force. Disagreements, if any, will be worked out between Mr. Royall and Mr. Symington.

d. Representatives of the War Department and the Air Force will appear jointly at the hearings planned by the Bureau of the Budget and before Committees of the Congress, as appropriate.

e. Funds which may be appropriated for the support of the Air Force in the War Department Fiscal Year 1949 Budget will be administered in a manner recommended by the two Departments, and approved by the Secretary of Defense, after evaluation of organizational and functional changes arising out of the pending reorganization.

Indication of Mr. Forrestal's approval of these proposals will complete the solution of this problem.

2. Transfer of Current Funds.—With respect to the transfer of current funds, it is believed that action should be taken to comply with the provisions of Section 306, Public Law 253, as expeditiously as possible. It is recognized, however, that it is to the mutual interest of the War Department and the Air Force to accomplish this transfer in a sound and logical manner. It will require that certain transfers be made after a thorough evaluation of changes in organization and procedures which, in most cases, have not yet crystallized. It is accordingly recommended that:

a. Transfers of funds take place from time to time, as necessitated by the transfer of personnel, organizations or functions, and as mutually recommended by the two Departments and approved by the Secretary of Defense.

b. Pending such transfers, the Budget Officer for the War Department (Department of the Army) continue to allocate funds for the support of the Air Force upon the recommendation of that Department.

SECTION IX. AGREEMENTS ON ADJUTANT GENERAL FUNCTIONS

The following general areas of agreement have been reached; however, much detailed study is required before a decision can be made as to the date of transfer of such functions, the allocation of personnel authorizations and the transfer of individuals.

1. Current Records.—The U. S. Air Force will assume custody of all current 201 files and records of active, retired, and reserve personnel who are transferred to the U. S. Air Force.

2. Associate Functions.—Upon assuming custody of the above 201 files and records, the U. S. Air Force will also assume those functions, as they pertain to U. S. Air Force personnel, now being performed by the following sections of the Adjutant General's Office:

Personnel Actions Branch, Personnel Information Branch, Personnel Research and Procedures Branch, Decorations and Awards Branch, Assignment Branch and Reserve Branch.

3. Non-Current Records.—The Adjutant General will continue to maintain and service all non-current records, and the U. S. Air Force initially will retire future non-current records to Army Records Centers.

4. Corrections Branch.—The Adjutant General will continue to perform all functions now assigned to the Corrections Branch, AGO.

5. Military Personnel Procurement.—The Adjutant General will continue, for the present, to perform the functions now assigned to the Military Personnel Procurement Division, AGO. These functions will be performed under joint policies established by the Director of Personnel and Administration for the Army and the Assistant Chief of Air Staff -1 for the Air Force.

6. Strength Accounting, etc.—The U. S. Air Force will assume those functions, as they pertain to the Air Force, now performed by the following sections of the Adjutant General's Office: Strength Accounting Branch, Operations Branch and Security Classification Branch.

7. Office Service Branch.—The Adjutant General will continue to operate the Office Service Branch.

8. Other Functions.—Further study will be necessary in determining agreements on the functions now performed by the Army Publications Service, the Army Postal Service and the Civilian Personnel Branch.

SECTION X. AGREEMENTS ON INSPECTOR GENERAL FUNCTIONS

In view of the fact that the Army Air Forces has enjoyed almost complete autonomy insofar as Inspector General functions are concerned for the past two years and the two agencies have worked in close harmony, there are no points of disagreement concerning the division of responsibilities incident to separation of the Air Forces from the U. S. Army. Formal agreement has been reached concerning the separation of the major functions of The Inspector General.

1. Annual General Inspections.—All annual general inspection reports and action letters, Inspector General's Department, pertaining to Air Force activities, will be processed entirely by The Air Inspector. All inspection reports now in the hands of The Inspector General, concerning inspections of Air Force activities for the fiscal year 1948, will be transferred to The Air Inspector as the final repository. This also applies to any special inspections of Air Force activities excluding procurement inspections.

2. Procurement Inspections.—Complete responsibility for procurement inspection will be transferred simultaneously with the transfer of complete responsibility for procurement.

3. Inspection of Air Force Disbursing Officers.—Although since 1 July 1947 informal agreement has been in effect concerning inspection of fiscal matters, it is agreed that the Air Force will now accept all responsibility for inspection of accounts of Air Force disbursing officers, including the final filing of Forms No. 3, IGD. Any Forms No. 3, IGD, concerning Air Force disbursing officers, completed as a result of inspections since 1 July 1947 will be delivered by The Inspector General to The Air Inspector.

4. Complaints and/or Allegations.—All complaints concerning Air Force personnel or installations made under Army regulations will become the responsibility of The Air Inspector. All correspondence concerning complaints and/or allegations now in process will be completed by the agency now responsible.

5. Investigations.—Any investigation pertaining to Air Force personnel or facilities, formerly conducted under the provisions of AR 20-30, will become the responsibility of The Air Inspector on and after 1 September 1947. All such investigations now in process will remain the responsibility of the responsible agency now conducting the investigation. Investigations concerning war frauds will continue to be the responsibility of The Inspector General until such time as the responsibility for the contracts involved is determined.

6. National Guard.—It is agreed that until such time as Section 93, National Defense Act of 1920 is amended, The Air Inspector will be responsible for the inspection of Air National Guard units under the provisions of NGR No. 48.

7. Air ROTC Inspections.—The inspection of Air ROTC units will be the responsibility of The Air Inspector.

8. General.—a. It is mutually agreed that the agency conducting an inspection or investigation is authorized to cross such channels into the other agency as is necessary for completion of the inspection or investigation, following appropriate coordination with responsible commanders.

b. All of the matters stated in the agreements above are equally applicable to the Zone of Interior and Overseas commands.

c. With respect to those functions mutually agreed upon, The Inspector General interposes no objection to properly detailed air inspectors performing the functions heretofore reserved for inspectors general and The Air Inspector is authorized to continue to detail in the Inspector General's Department such officers as he may consider necessary, pending publication of Air Force regulations governing detail as Air Inspectors.

CHAPLAIN FUNCTIONS

1. The Chaplain Corps, United States Army will continue to furnish Chaplains for duty with the United States Air Force.

2. Chaplains of the Army normally will be attached for duty with the U. S. Air Force for a three- or four-year period. Such tours may be lengthened or shortened by agreement between the Department of the Army and Department of the Air Force. While attached for duty with the U. S. Air Force, Chaplains will be under the command and assignment jurisdiction of the Chief of Staff, U. S. Air Force.

3. Policy promulgated by the Chief of Chaplains as it affects the U. S. Air Force will be coordinated with the U. S. Air Force prior to publication.

4. The U. S. Air Force will compute their needs for Chaplains, Chaplains' equipment and religious supplies and defend the budget for these matters.

5. The U. S. Army will procure and furnish to the U. S. Air Force Chaplains, Chaplains' equipment and religious supplies in accordance with approved budget allowance.

PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL FUNCTIONS

1. General.—a. There will be established a joint provost marshal staff (Army-Air Force level). Both parts of such staff would operate as a single unit and by mutual agreement on common functions. Each part of such staff would function independently insofar as the individual service is concerned. This would provide the necessary personnel to perform all functions and responsibilities assigned to the two services. Such joint staff section would be composed of the aggregate of troop spaces and civilian authorizations now available to The Provost Marshal General and the Air Provost Marshal offices with subsequent (date to be decided) redistribution of those spaces and authorizations on a 60%-40% Air Force ratio.

b. The joint staff established as above would conduct continuing studies during the two-year transition period so that recommendations may be made from time to time to the Army and Air Force staffs for such transfers of personnel, equipment, etc., as are indicated by further divisions of responsibility in accordance with the principles laid down by higher authority.

c. Adjoining office space should be provided for efficient operation of the joint staff.

2. Police of Public Carriers.—Group movements are a command responsibility and the police of such movements is the responsibility of the commander of the station of origin. This responsibility begins at point of origin and continues through to destination. Where the density of individual travel or other circumstances warrant it, the local commander will take the necessary action with regard to police enforcement. No reallocation of personnel or spaces is involved.

3. Security of Air Force Bases, Posts, Camps and Stations.—Each department will be responsible for the security of its own installations. No reallocation of spaces or personnel is involved.

4. Guard Houses.—Each department will be responsible for the operation and control of its own guard houses. No reallocation of spaces or personnel is involved.

5. Loyalty Investigations and Allied Subjects Including Plant Clearance.—For the time being each department will remain responsible according to present division of responsibilities. A study is now under way to arrive at a satisfactory solution to this matter. It is not believed that any reallocation of spaces or personnel will be involved.

6. Domestic Disturbances.—The Air Provost Marshal will have no direct responsibility in such matters.

7. Off-Post and Off-Base Patrols.—a. Where area frequented is contiguous to a post, camp, station or base of one service and only one service is involved, the using service will be responsible for the off-post, camp, station or base patrol of the frequented area.

b. Where personnel of both departments frequent a single area the responsibility for the police of that area is the responsibility of the service having the greater garrison strength. Personnel for patrols in such areas will be furnished by both departments as agreed between the local commanders concerned.

8. Criminal Investigations.—Each department will conduct both on and off station criminal investigations as it pertains to itself. No reallocation of spaces or personnel is involved.

9. Apprehensions.—Each department will be involved in the apprehension of deserters, escapes, etc. Each department will assist the other in this matter upon request.

10. Military Police School.—The Army will operate the school and will supply the administrative staff required for its operation. The faculty, except for civilian members thereof, will be allocated between the two departments according to the participation of the two services in the school. Troop spaces will be transferred from the Army to the Air Force in accordance with this agreement. Civilian instructors will be furnished by the Army. Each department will participate in the establishment of the curriculum of the school.

11. Military Police Board.—Each department will have representation on the Board; the Air Force furnishing two members, the Army three.

PUBLIC INFORMATION FUNCTIONS

1. The following functions are now performed by the War Department Public Information Division for the Public Information Division, AAF and will be continued for the U. S. Air Force.

a. Mimeographing of releases.

b. Distribution of releases to media and individuals.

c. Clearance of releases for security and policy except when covered by a certification from the Air Forces that subject matter pertains only to the Air Forces. On matters of mutual interest and where there is doubt concerning the War Department policy, releases will be submitted to War Department Public Information Division.

d. Press room will be used mutually with free access by the Air Forces to representatives of the press.

e. Clearance and accreditation of correspondents to overseas theaters is the responsibility of the Liaison Section, WDPRD. The Air Force makes use of these facilities.

2. Apart from the foregoing, the Air Forces has been given the authority to operate autonomously in all Public Information matters.

3. This arrangement has functioned satisfactorily and it is recommended that it be continued as long as Headquarters of the Air Forces remain in the Pentagon. The Air Forces will eventually assume the mimeographing and distribution, outside of local requirements, of their releases. The clearance of releases will become the responsibility of the Air Forces.

LEGISLATIVE AND LIAISON FUNCTIONS

1. Congressional Liaison.—This covers in general the type of personalized service now being rendered the Congress by the Liaison Branch of the Legislative and Liaison Division with respect to congressional inquiries directed to the War Department either in writing or verbal. It does not cover the field of legislative liaison nor the field of liaison

"UNITED STATES AT WAR"

A limited number of copies of the Army and Navy Journal's historic volumes, "United States at War" is still available. This series, the first volume of which was published 7 December 1942 with succeeding volumes each year until the War's end, forms a complete history of World War II in authoritative articles written by Military, Naval and civilian leaders actually in charge of the operations in the active theatres and at home. Profusely illustrated, they merit a place in every well balanced library.

A small number of each of the four volumes is ready for distribution at $3.00 per copy in paper binding and $5.00 in cloth binding. (Volume I is available only in paper binding.)

Army-Air Force Agreement

with Congressional Investigation Committees. It is agreed that the Legislative and Liaison Division will turn over to the Legislative Services Division of the Air Force the functions of primary interest to the Air Force together with personnel presently engaged in carrying out those functions. It is estimated that complete transfer of both functions and personnel can be effected within thirty (30) days following approval of this agreement.

2. Legislative Formulation, Processing and Liaison.—The transfer of functions in this field is agreed should be an evolutionary process. Legislative and Liaison Division will continue to be responsible for monitoring the processing and presentation of the current War Department legislative program, both Army and Air Force, pending before the 80th Congress. Personnel of the Legislative Services Division of the Air Force will participate in carrying out these functions under the close coordination and supervision of the Chief of the Legislative and Liaison Division. It is anticipated that such personnel will gain sufficient experience by the end of the 80th Congress to permit the functions of formulation, processing and presentation of the Air Force legislative program to be presented to the 81st Congress to be placed under the direct control of the Legislative Services Division.

Legislative problems originating subsequent to the date of this agreement may be of such a nature as to indicate independent handling by the Legislative Services Division. In such event the Chief of Legislative and Liaison Division is agreeable to such action. It is felt that any transfer of personnel from the Legislative Branch of Legislative and Liaison Division should take place after final session of the 80th Congress.

3. Congressional Investigations.—In the field of congressional investigations, it is agreed that those matters now under investigation by congressional committees should continue to be handled under the supervision and control of Legislative and Liaison Division. New matters of investigation by committees will be the responsibility of Legislative and Liaison Division or Legislative Services Division, depending upon whether the matter primarily pertains to the Army or Air Force. Matters of mutual interest will be closely coordinated between the two offices. No personnel is to be transferred to the Air Force until the close of the last session of the 80th Congress.

4. Senate and House Liaison Offices.—These offices are a part of the Liaison Branch of Legislative and Liaison Division and as such their functions and personnel are a part of the agreement included under paragraph 1 above. It is felt, however, that their organization and composition subsequent to the adjournment of the 80th Congress will be contingent upon the wishes of the 81st Congress and upon decision of the Secretary of Defense. For these reasons it is agreed that pending decision by higher authority these offices will continue under Legislative and Liaison Division during the remainder of the 80th Congress but will serve Legislative Services Division directly in all matters affecting the Air Force. In the event that the Secretary of Defense does not establish by the beginning of the 81st Congress, an office to serve the entire military establishment, Legislative Services Division will establish congressional liaison offices in both the House of Representatives and Senate, comparable to those now existing for Legislative and Liaison Division and the Navy.

5. War Department Liaison Officers Assigned to Senate and House Armed Services Committees.—The primary function of these officers is to assist the Armed Services Committees, and thereby serve the War Department, in receiving, analyzing, and processing the legislative proposals of the War Department. The Navy has liaison officers with these same committees who perform similar functions for the Navy. It is agreed that the officers of Legislative and Liaison Division now performing this duty continue serving both the War Department and the Air Force for the duration of the 80th Congress. As a matter of interest, one of the two committee liaison officers is an Air Force officer. This arrangement is considered in harmony with the previously stated agreement that all current legislation will remain the responsibility of Legislative and Liaison Division during the 80th Congress. Closest liaison is to be maintained between Legislative and Liaison Division and Legislative Services Division on this function.

TROOP INFORMATION AND EDUCATION FUNCTIONS

The Troop Information and Education Division, WDSS, and its three field installations in the past established policies, planned operations, and furnished services for the T&E program for the U. S. Army including the Army Air Force. In addition, the Navy has participated actively in this program by acting jointly with the Army in operating the U. S. Armed Forces Institute and the Armed Forces Radio Service, and by using informational materials produced for the Army. Consequently, the WD Troop Information and Education operation is already largely unified with the Air Force and the Navy. The following satisfactory mutual agreements have been reached:

1. The Army Air Force will continue to participate in the present Troop Information and Education program being conducted for the U. S. Army.

2. The U. S. Armed Forces Institute, the Armed Forces Radio Service, and the Armed Forces Press Service will continue to serve the Army Air Force in the same way they serve the Army.

3. The Army Air Force will continue to receive the weekly Armed Forces Talk and other materials furnished by this Special Staff Division in the same manner as it has in the past.

4. The Army Air Force will furnish its proportionate share of personnel to conduct the T&E program. The replacement of present Army personnel with Air Force personnel is to be a gradual operation.

5. The Army Air Force will have a voice in establishing policies governing the T&E activities and in the operation of the field agencies. This voice will be obtained initially through the Air Force personnel serving with the T&E Division, WDSS, and its field installations. The ultimate objective is equal status for the Army, Navy, and Air Force in establishing policies governing T&E activities. In the interim period, the Air Force will have an equal status with the Army in all matters common to both forces. This coordination will be direct through Chief, T&E Division, WDSS, and AC/AS-1.

6. The Army Air Force will continue to utilize the facilities of the Army Information School for the training of Information and Education officers.

CIVIL AFFAIRS FUNCTIONS

1. There are no Civil Affairs Division problems, projects or functions to be transferred to or from the Air Force.

2. All Air Force personnel now with Civil Affairs Division could be transferred to the Air Force—if this transfer were accomplished gradually. However, it would be most desirable if at least two or three Air Force Officers would remain in Civil Affairs Division to facilitate resolution of Civil Affairs/Military Government problems with aviation implications.

3. It is emphasized that the above comments apply only to Civil Affairs Division and do not prejudice dispositions within the theaters of occupation by the theater commanders.

HISTORICAL FUNCTIONS

1. The Historical Division, WDSS, and the Air Force Historical office were organized independently and are administratively autonomous. Since the ending of hostilities the major task of each organization has been to prepare its part of the official history of the "U. S. Army in World War II." Close liaison and coordination exists between the two historical organizations with the result that all matters such as scope, standards, access to records, distribution, etc., have been resolved. It is believed that the mutual clearance and concurrence that each organization receives from the other before the volumes are published should continue so that each organization can profit from the other's experience and that the public will know that the histories as produced have the official approval of both the U. S. Army and the U. S. Air Force.

2. In writing of the history of World War II it would be impossible to present a clear and factual account if the air and ground story were not integrated just as they were integrated during the war. It will be necessary for certain Air officers to remain on the staff of the Historical Division until the history is complete to make certain that tactical air phase is complete and receives adequate treatment within the ground volumes.

3. Recently a special fund was established with the Army Central Welfare Agency as custodian to insure the completion and publication of the official history, "U. S. Army in World War II" (Ground Forces, Air Forces, Service Forces). It is known that some volumes will cost more to produce than others so it is recommended that any decision partitioning this account into separate funds for the Air Force and Army be postponed until more experience and more adequate cost analyses can be obtained. Pending final decision on division of the fund it is recommended that the Chief Air Historical Office continue as a member of the Council administering the fund.

4. a. The Historical Division is planning to develop a unit histories section to execute those responsibilities assigned to the Division by War Department Circular No. 20, 2 Aug. 1947. Part II of the Circular, Distinctive Insignia, lifts the prohibition on manufacture of distinctive unit insignia and outlines the procedure and priority by which the insignia may be secured by units. Prior to World War II the Historical Section, Army War College determined and prepared for the Quartermaster General the histories of units, including Air, on which the designs of Coats of Arms and Units insignia are based. During the past war the preparation and issuance of coats of arms and unit insignia was suspended, but the Historical Section, Army War College maintained unit files in anticipation of the reopening of the program. A short time ago, the Historical Section, Army War College was combined with the Historical Division, WDSS, along with the above mentioned files. These files will be the records upon which the unit histories will be based.

b. The files are now being maintained by one warrant officer who files orders showing changes in status of units such as activation, inactivation, redesignation, change of station, etc., as published by the Adjutant General, Army Areas, and Air Commands. It is believed that the Air Force unit files should be transferred to the AAG Records Administrator for maintenance when the Air Adjutant General assumes the function of recording changes in status of air units now being performed for the Air Force by the Adjutant General.

c. In line with the above it is believed that the Air Force should assume responsibility as soon as possible for the determination and compilation of data on Air Force units. This recommendation is made for the following reasons:

(1) On assumption by the Air Adjutant General of those functions performed for the Air Force by the Adjutant General, the Historical Division will be unable to maintain the unit historical files for Air Forces units unless complicated and expensive liaison is maintained between the Air Adjutant General and the Historical Division.

(2) As the program for design and issuance of unit insignia and coats of arms is just being implemented and has not started actual operation as yet, it is believed that the Air Force might be desirous of revising regulations and directives concerning the unit history, battle honors, unit insignia, etc., along lines more suitable to the Air Force.

5. The Historical Division is preparing an Order of Battle and a day by day chronology of the war. It may be that the Air Force will desire to do the work applicable to the Air Force under their supervision but as the work has not advanced far enough for a decision it is recommended that the Historical Division remain responsible for its completion at this time.

STATISTICAL OFFICE FUNCTIONS

1. The enactment of the National Security Act of 1947 raises three broad problems with respect to the functions of the Central Statistical Office, the Statistical Control Division of Army Air Forces and other statistical and reporting services as follows:

a. The coordination among the Army, the Navy, and the Air Force on common reporting and statistical services and particularly in submitting to the Joint Staff and the Secretary of Defense reports in comparable units, terminology, and periods so as to enable evaluation and comparison of data obtained from the three departments.

b. The transfer to the U. S. Air Force of responsibility for statistical and reporting services pertaining to the U. S. Air Force which have heretofore been processed through the War Department.

c. The servicing of the Office, Secretary of Defense with statistical analyses and studies required for planning, policy, and operating decisions.

2. In connection with the problems outlined above, until such time as the organization of the Office, Secretary of Defense and the Joint Staff are formulated, specific proposals with respect to paragraph 1 c must await further development.

3. As regards paragraphs 1 a and b above the following agreements have been reached:

a. That the Central Statistical Office and the Statistical Control Division be designated as the agencies for their respective departments to effect any necessary actions or coordination required by 1 a above.

b. That the Air Force will continue to furnish reports necessary for publication of documents such as the Civilian Personnel Statistics Bulletin, The War Department Troop Program, Strength Reports of the Army, and The War Department Troop List, as prescribed by the Central Statistical Office. The discontinuance of the Joint Army-Air character of each of these publications and the institution of separate publications for each Department will be accomplished as rapidly as feasible but of necessity will be governed by the requirements for presenting Joint Army-Air Statistics to budget and common supply and service agencies.

c. That field reports will be separated as rapidly as is consistent with the shift of functions from the War Department to the Departments of Army and Air so as to provide for reports on Air Force matters going direct to the Headquarters, U. S. Air Force.

MANAGEMENT OFFICE FUNCTIONS

1. Since the work of the Management Office is basically internal, concerned almost exclusively with administrative and management operations within the Staff area, rather than Army-wide matters, there will not be very many points at which there is potential overlap of functions between this office and its counterpart in the Air Force.

2. There are three principal areas in which this office will be affected in the separation of the Air Force.

a. Withdrawal of USAF officers from agencies of the War Department Groups.

b. Administration of USAF personnel remaining in the War Department Groups or subsequently assigned to the War Department Groups.

c. Allocation of funds.

3. On the first of these points—the withdrawal of Air Force officers from the War Department agencies—it is understood that the Air Force will withdraw its officers individually over an extended period rather than establish percentage quotas for specific dates. It is also understood that the Career Management Branch, P & A Division will be primarily concerned with filling the resulting vacancies with Army officers. Apparently, there is no action necessary by the Management Office on this problem until the actual withdrawal of Air Force officers begins.

4. The problem indicated in paragraph 2 b above, regarding the authorization and administration of USAF personnel remaining in the War Department Groups or subsequently assigned to the War Department Groups, breaks into two parts: (a) the administration of Air personnel assigned to Army agencies and (b) the administration of Air and Army personnel assigned to Joint agencies. This is being worked out by O & T, P & A, the Manpower Board, and the Management Office. The proposed plan worked out by these agencies will be submitted to Headquarters, AAF for concurrence. The Allocations Branch of A-3 has already indicated its willingness to go along with whatever arrangement is worked out by the Army.

5. As far as the administration of the joint agencies is concerned, there are four subdivisions of this problem:

a. Civilian and military personnel authorization.

b. Military personnel administration.

c. Civilian personnel administration.

d. Civilian personnel budget.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff have not been able as yet to give any indication as to how the administration of their agencies will be handled under the new setup. There are two alternatives: either to have the administration of the Joint Staff handled by a central agency at their level or in the Office of the Secretary of Defense, or to have the present system of Army-Navy contributions of personnel and money on a roughly 50-50 basis broadened so that there will be one third participation by Army, Navy, and Air in contributing to the support of the Joint Staff. This office and most of the Army and Air agencies with whom the problem has been discussed favor the first alternative—the creation of an operating management office in the Office of the Secretary of Defense to take care of administrative matters for his immediate office plus the Joint Staff, the Munitions Board, the Research and Development Board, and any other committees or agencies which may be established at that level. However, until this basic decision is reached, it will not be possible to arrive at any definite agreement with the Air Force on the administration of the joint agencies. Agreements have been reached to handle the administration of the Air Force share of the Joint Staff authorization, budget, and personnel, if it is decided that the Joint Staff will be supported on a three-way contribution basis.

6. The allocation of budgetary funds to the Air Force will be handled by the Management Office insofar as the payment of salaries for departmental civilian personnel in Staff is concerned. However, it will not be possible to determine precisely the amount of money involved in the transfer until each of the Staff agencies has come to an agreement with the Air Force regarding the number of people involved in the split-off of functions between Army and Air. For example, the amount of money that should be transferred from the Intelligence Division to A-2 cannot be determined until those two organizations come to an agreement as to the functions which will be carried by each organization. As soon as these determinations have been made and approved, arrangements will be made with the Budget Division and the Air Comptroller for the transfer of the necessary funds. At this point, it does not seem likely that there will be any large amount of money involved in the transfer since the Staff agencies will need to maintain the bulk of their present staff for strictly Army activities.

STAFF COMMUNICATIONS OFFICE FUNCTIONS

1. Staff Communications Office will continue to perform present service to the Air Forces.

2. If, at a future date, the above agreement is found to be impractical, a survey will be made to determine whether or not these functions should be assumed by an Air Force Staff agency.

JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL FUNCTIONS

1. The Department of Air will assume all functions, as they pertain to the Department of Air, now charged to the Judge Advocate General (except those pertaining to real estate and construction contracts). This transfer of functions will be accomplished gradually as the Air Force becomes prepared to assume them.

2. The Department of Air will not assume responsibility for appellate review as provided by Article of War 50½ pending passage, by the Congress, of necessary legislation.

3. Reallocation of space authorizations and personnel between the Office of The Judge Advocate General and The Air Judge Advocate is being studied and will be presented at a later date.

(NOTE: The above agreements, except for the portion shown in parentheses will hold after the separation of the Air Force. Further discussions are being held concerning the portion shown in parentheses).
